INTRODUCTION

After retirement, I considered whether I could give something back to others from what I had. With this objective, I organized over 12,000 silk-producing farmers in Maharashtra and India.

I strongly felt that a lot of market data in the silk sector was not compiled. As a result, the market fluctuations or detailed analysis were not understood, nor was it clear where the market rates were higher. Since the main markets for silk were in other states, there was also a language barrier. The difference in rates between our market and outside markets was not understood. Past prices were also not known. Farmers faced these and many other problems.

I studied these issues and overcame them, and for the past one and a half years, I have been providing daily prices and their detailed analysis online. Such a database is not available anywhere else. Also, other useful information such as farmers' numbers, office numbers, mulberry cultivation, seed centers, training centers, nursery information, buyer market information, guidance from experienced officers and farmers, important notes from officers, etc., and much more information has been made available online. Being online, it can be viewed anytime, anywhere. On the group, farmers constantly engage in discussions, share experiences, and resolve difficulties. As a result, many have benefited.

This work consumes a lot of time every day, but it is satisfying because it is extremely useful to the farmers. The online information has been viewed more than 9+ lakh times at National level. The number of farmers in the group from India has reached over 12,000. It is a matter of pride that the number of farmers from Maharashtra is very high. It took two years to collect and process this information.

This work has been made possible by social media. Otherwise, organizing such a large and scattered group of farmers would have been virtually impossible. With continuous access to data from major markets in India and the emergence of price discrepancies, our local markets also improved in offering higher prices, and farmers started receiving competitive rates. Farmers also began and continue to go to markets offering higher prices. This is definitely helping to improve the farmers' standard of living and quality of life.

This work has certainly made the path to progress easier for farmers with the help of technology, and they are also embracing technology.

Since the work is being done in coordination with silk entrepreneurs and the Maharashtra State Sericulture Department, it is definitely helping in the growth of the silk industry in Maharashtra.

This valuable and exemplary work for farmers has been done with the inspiration of enriching one's own life while enriching the lives of others. The main objective of this work is to provide accurate, timely, and reliable information to farmers with the help of modern technology. Specifically, this work is ongoing and will continue to reduce losses due to lack of information in the sericulture sector, empower silk entrepreneurs to understand market fluctuations, promote sustainable agriculture, and thereby improve the lives of entrepreneurs.

Mr. Magar has also been honored by the government, including:
Director General of Police Insignia,
Honored by the Governor and the Chief Minister,
Honorable President's Medal, etc.
